

Report on the 54th
National Debate Tournament

University of Missouri,

Kansas City

March 24 - 27, 2000

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

March 9, 2000

Warm greetings to everyone gathered at the University of Missouri-Kansas City for the 54th annual National Debate Tournament, sponsored by the American Forensic Association.

Communication is one of the most important skills in a democratic society. Without it, we could not debate important issues, reach sensible compromise, or discuss our nation's priorities. As we look forward to the challenges and opportunities of this new century, communication becomes even more essential -- providing access to new knowledge and allowing us to participate more fully in our increasingly global society.

Each of you has mastered the art of one of the most difficult forms of communication, and, as you participate in this tournament, you can be proud that you are doing much more than scoring points for your team or competing for a trophy. You are refining an invaluable skill that you can use to strengthen our democracy, reinforce our ties to other peoples, and create a brighter future.

I commend each of you for your talent and determination, and I thank your coaches and advisors for their commitment to advancing the art of debating among our nation's college students. Best wishes to all for a memorable tournament.

The National Debate Tournament

THE YEARS AT WEST POINT

In 1947, it was unusual to find debate teams crossing the country or meeting a rival team more than once or twice. Most debate tournaments were local or regional in nature. There was no place where top teams from across the country could compete. The Westpoint National Intercollegiate Tournament was organized and conducted by the United States Military Academy to provide such an experience—where top teams from across the nation could meet. The tournament rules were determined by West Point Administration in consultation with such debate coaches as A. Craig Baird of the University of Iowa, G.M. Musgrave of Des Moines, Alan Nichols of USC, E.R. Nichols of the University of Redlands, and Joseph O'Brien of Pennsylvania State University.

Seven regions were set up to identify top teams, and select 29 colleges to participate in five seeding rounds and four elims over a three day period. Some of the features of the tournament stipulated that no school would meet a school within 500 miles of itself during the seeding rounds and that no coach would judge a school from his or her own district. Several traditions started at West Point remain in practice today: the “big board,” oral announcement of pairings, and team signs in the rooms.

West Point administered the tournament for the first twenty years of its history. Initially there were no fees; housing and meals were provided by the Academy. For the first few years coaches stayed in the homes of Academy officers. All entertainment facilities on the base were free, except for the Post Theatre, which charged 15¢ a movie (Debaters Magazine, 1947). During these years the tournament was expanded from 29 to 38 teams. After a series of tab room errors, a Committee of coaches was set up to “review” the results of the prelims before elim rounds began (Parson, “The NDT at Fifty”).

THE AMERICAN FORENSIC ASSOCIATION TAKES OVER

The Early Years: 1967-1974

In 1966 West Point Commandant William Westmoreland informed George Ziegelmueller, then President of the American Forensic Association, that the Academy would no longer host the tournament. The reason cited was “budget constraints,” and the decision came as a complete surprise to the forensic community. Four coaches, Annabel Hagood of Alabama, Herb James of Dartmouth, William Reynolds of Georgetown and Ziegelmueller of Wayne State formed an interim transition committee, with Hagood and James focusing on the problem of finance.

The early years of the AFA sponsored tournament (1967-1975) were marked by coaches planning, setting guidelines and eligibility rules, searching for a director as well as a tournament site; they were years of change. The first chair of what became the National Debate Tournament Committee was Annabel Hagood, and the first NDT Director, Stan Rives. The initial committee assumption was that it would pick a different director for each year. Following Rives as director were Richard Rieke in 1968 at Brooklyn College, Roger Hufford in 1969 at Northern Illinois, Dave Matheny in 1970 at the University of Houston, and John Lehman in 1971 at Macalester College and again in 1972 at the University of Utah. This period was marked by the development of coaches' responsibility for all aspects of the tournament, which was renamed The National Debate Tournament. Beginning in 1970, it was possible for a school to have two of its teams qualify to the NDT; this occurred after much heated debate (and a fear that some school would “close-out” the NDT which apparently would constitute an embarrassment).

Districts were reconstituted but remained eight in number until a new district (District IX) representing the Rocky Mountain States was added, and an initial allotment of bids for each district was negotiated. The NDT Committee sought a way to recognize teams achieving outstanding records throughout the season, and the first-round at-large bids were invented to begin operation in 1971. Initially the Committee proposed a list of 10 major tournaments during the year, the winner of which would get an automatic bid to the NDT; since a team might win more than one tournament, the second place would earn a bid if the winner had already received one. With some modification, this system worked for two years (although there were disagreements over which constituted the top ten tournaments for a particular year), but by 1973 the Committee had changed to the current system—having 16 bids awarded on the basis of a team's full season record.

The early 1970s also saw a shift in tournament format. Occasionally a negative team would want to know something about an affirmative plan in the hope of linking a particular disadvantage. The practice was for the first negative to outline a series of questions to be answered in the second affirmative. During the early 1970s there was some movement to adopt a format which allowed direct questioning of each speaker, and the cross-exam format was adopted for the 1976 NDT; while some invitational tournaments initially kept the old format, it was not long before cross examination debate became dominant.

The Later Years: 1975-2000

Merwyn Hayes of Wake Forest directed the NDT in 1973 and 1974. After his surprise resignation in the fall of 1974, a member of his tab room staff, Mike Hazen of Wake Forest was chosen to direct the NDT, a post he held until 1983. The tournament remained the same size (62 teams; it had been increased from 46 teams in 1973), and used the same method of pairing (high-high power match in odd number rounds; high-low within brackets for even numbered rounds). It also placed the same number of teams into the elimination rounds: 16.

David Zarefsky of Northwestern replaced Hazen as director, and ran the tournament from 1984 until 1989. The size of the tournament moved from 62 teams to 74 teams by 1988 and the elimination rounds expanded to include all teams with five wins and thirteen ballots. This was also the decade of the first experiment with computer tabulation, and it occurred at the 1988 tournament (Zarefsky interview). Gary Larson had developed a computer program for pairing and judge placement, but it was backed up in the traditional manner. In 1989 the experiment was tried again, but the computer program crashed early, and the tournament was gently removed from machine control.

Several changes took place in the early 1990s when the tournament was directed by Al Johnson. The tournament size was determined by a complex set of formulas, with the number of teams ranging from 68 to 78, the maximum allowed. Six schools could now have a third team qualify to enter the tournament. The tournament began experimenting again with computer programs, this time with one developed by Rich Edwards of Baylor University (Edwards, Tab-Room-on-the-Mac). The NDT Committee made changes in pairing assumptions, with the number of high-high power matched rounds reduced from three to one.

The 1996 Golden Anniversary NDT brought more than one hundred alums to Wake Forest University where the Anniversary tournament was held. Alumni listened to rounds (with mixed reactions), visited with Former Senator and Presidential Candidate George McGovern, with the current debaters and with each other. Bill Southworth and Allan Loudon prepared an elaborate tournament booklet, featuring a great deal of the 50 year happenings of the NDT.

From 1988 on, participation in elimination rounds was limited to teams which had collected 5 wins and 13 ballots, which meant that typically one to three teams with 5 wins and fewer ballots were denied the chance to participate. From 1997 on, the NDT Committee changed the rules so that all teams with 5 wins regardless of ballot count could advance to the elimination rounds (up to a total of 32).

This was also the first year that the NDT Committee experimented with E-Mail for first and second round at-large submissions, with mixed results. The 1998-99 NDT Committee voted to allow more than six third teams from one school to qualify if the allocation of second round at large bids was not filled by qualified teams. For the 1999 and 2000 NDT, that number of third teams remained at six; the tournament was at its maximum: 78 teams.

Unfortunately no pictures were taken, but the 2000 Lucy Keele Award was presented to retiring NDT Board Treasurer, Bill Balthrop, and the George Ziegelmuller Award went to Allen Louden.

The 1999-2000 topic was "RESOLVED, that the United States Federal Government should adopt a policy of constructive engagement, including the immediate removal of all or nearly all economic sanctions, with the government(s) of one or more of the following nation states: Cuba, Iran, Iraq, Syria, North Korea." The topic proved relatively narrow with affirmatives focused on the benefits, both moral and political, of lifting US sanctions on one of the five topic countries. Negatives argued disadvantages that raised issues of weapons of mass destruction, relations with other nations and the ebb and flow of President Clinton's political fortunes. Arguments grounded in critical perspectives and very precise counter-plans became increasingly popular. In the final round Emory advocated lifting US sanctions against Iran. The negative, Michigan State, responded by challenging the geo-political assumptions of nation-state centered policymaking, a kritik of the notion of borders. In a close debate, the affirmative prevailed on a 3-2 decision.

I am indebted to Rich McCollum for commentary, to the University of Kansas coaches for photo identification and to Suzanne Grachek for help in preparation and design.

IN REMEMBRANCE. In April, 2000, Jerry Goldberg, former director of debate at Pace and still a faculty member there died after a short illness. He completed his education at Pace with a doctorate in 1988 and remained adviser to the debate program as well as consultant to the New York City Public Schools Lincoln/Douglas debate program.

Earlier in the 1999-2000 school year, Harold Lawson, director of debate at Central Missouri State University died unexpectedly. Harold debated for Kansas State Teachers College (now Emporia State University) and tied as First Speaker at the 1962 NDT. He received a JD from Capital University as well as a PhD from Ohio State University. Harold also coached at Ohio State, Capital, and Western Illinois Universities.

2000 National Debate Tournament Administration

The National Tournament Committee plans and oversees the NDT each year, including the choosing and ranking of first and second round teams. Every decade or so they pose for their picture. Back Row: Heather Aldridge (District IV), Catherine Palczewski (Midwest), Glen Frappier (Dist II), Steve Mancuso (Dist V), Mike Berry (Dist VII), Shawn Whalen (Dist I), Ross Smith (South), Greg Achten (West), Mike Janas (Dist VI), Ken Strange (East), Joel Rollins (Dist III), Tim Mahoney (Dist VIII). Older coaches are seated: David Hingstman, Parliamentarian, John Fritch, Committee Chair, and Frank Harrison, Secretary.

Conducting the financial planning and execution of the NDT is the Board of Trustees. Pictured here are Tim Hynes, John Gossett, Chair, Brett O'Donnell, and Bill Balthrop, Treasurer. Trustee Pat Ganer was AWOL.

The 2000 Tab Room included Dan Lingel, Dallas, Texas, Arnie Madsen and Cate Palczewski, Cedar Falls, Iowa, Rich Edwards, Waco, Texas, Neil Phillips, Buffalo, New York, and Donn Parson, Director, Lawrence, Kansas.

National Debate Tournament 2000

University of Missouri at Kansas City

March 24-27, 2000

2000 TOP SPEAKERS

The First Place Speaker Awards went to Ryan Sparacino of Northwestern University. These awards include the Wayne Brockriede First Place Watch, donated by Robert Feldhake (1976 Top Speaker) and the Travelling Tiffany Bowl naming the NDT's Top Speakers. Sparacino was the 2nd Speaker in 1999.

Tied for Second Speaker at the 2000 NDT, and also receiving watches, were Steve Donald (left) of Michigan State University and Jairo Grove of the University of Texas.

Fourth Speaker was John Miller of Redlands University, and Fifth Speaker was Kristin Langwell of the University of Iowa.

The 2000 Final Round

Winning debaters from Emory University (Jon Paul Lupo and Mike Horowitz) are pictured with coach Melissa Wade and the First Place Sigrid Larmon Traveling Trophy. As NDT champions they also received a Permanent First Place trophy and finalist watches. Melissa Wade was presented a watch as coach of the winning team.

The final round of the 2000 NDT took place between Michigan State University (Steve Donald and Aaron Monick) and Emory University (Mike Horowitz and Jon Paul Lupo). Emory moved into the final round by being advanced over another Emory team (Stephen Bailey & Kamal Ghali) in the semis; Michigan State earned the finals with a 3-2 decision over the University of Texas (Kirk Evans & Jairos Grove) in the semi-final round. In the finals, Emory was affirmative and Michigan State negative. Five judges were chosen to observe the fray: Kelly Dunbar of Baylor University, Tim Mahoney of Pace University, Mike Hester of West Georgia University, Colin Kahl of the University of Michigan, and Greg Achten of Pepperdine University. On a 3-2 decision the debate was awarded to Emory University.

The Second Place team of Steve Donald and Aaron Monick of Michigan State University displays the Walker Permanent Trophy as the runner-up NDT team. They also received individual finalist watches and a permanent Second Place trophy.

First Round At Large Awards

Winner of the Rex Copeland Memorial Trophy is the University of Iowa team of Kristin Langwell and Andy Ryan. The award is presented to the top team in the first round at-large balloting. Named for the Samford debater who was killed in 1990, the award was donated by his parents.

New in 2000 were awards for the second through fifth ranked first round at large teams.

Second ranked was the Emory University team of Stephen Bailey and Kamal Ghali.

Third ranked was the Emory University team of Larry Heftman and Jeff McNabb.

Fourth Ranked was the Michigan State team of Aaron Monick and Steve Donald.

Fifth Ranked was the University of Kansas team of Mike Eber and Grant McKeehan.

Rex Copeland Award, 1990 - 2000

On September 21, 1989, the life of Rex Copeland was brought to a sudden and tragic close. With his death, Samford University lost an outstanding student, and the forensic community lost an excellent debater and friend.

In recognition of Rex's professional and personal qualities, Samford University together with his parents endowed a permanent award in his name. The Rex Copeland Memorial Award is presented annually to the collegiate debate team ranked "Number One" in the First Round, At-Large team selections.

This award recognizes the few who achieve one of the highest honors in the debate community.
