

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Shakespeare

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY's Department of English is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with major concentration in Shakespeare studies and with a secondary interest in English drama to 1642. The ideal applicant would have one or more publications in Shakespeare (we welcome one sample publication with applicant's initial letter). ABD or PHD required with a commitment to publication and high quality teaching. Teaching load is 3/2 with courses ranging from small first-year writing seminars to advanced electives and MA-level courses. Salary competitive. For information about the Department of English, go to www.wfu.edu/english. Located in Winston-Salem, NC, Wake Forest University is a private, coeducational institution with a student-faculty ratio of 10:1. Ranking among the top thirty national universities, it offers a vibrant intellectual community with a rich cultural life, an impressive array of facilities and an active athletics community. For quick facts about the University, go to <http://www.wfu.edu/visitors/quickfacts.html>. For quick facts on Winston-Salem, go to <http://www.cityofws.org/Home/DiscoverWinston-Salem/Articles/CityInformation>. Wake Forest University welcomes and encourages diversity and seeks applications and nominations from women and minorities. It seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning. AA/EOE. Send letter and vita only to Claudia Kairoff, Chair, Department of English, P.O. Box 7387, Winston-Salem, NC 27109, postmarked no later than October 31.

Lecturers in First Year Writing-September 2009

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY'S Department of English is seeking Lecturers to teach First Year Writing in a new writing program. The positions are full-time renewable and include funds for professional development and the option for a long-term career path with the University. ABD or PHD in Rhetoric and Composition preferred, as is a commitment to high quality teaching and an interest in curriculum design and writing across the curriculum. Professional and scholarly writers in other disciplines with experience teaching scholarly writing are also considered. Teaching load is 3/3, with courses in small, first-year writing seminars. Wake Forest University welcomes and encourages diversity and seeks applications and nominations from women and minorities. It seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning. Salary is competitive. For information about the Department of English, go to www.wfu.edu/english. Located in Winston-Salem, NC, Wake Forest University is a private, coeducational institution with a student-faculty ratio of 10:1. Ranking among the top thirty national universities, it offers a vibrant intellectual community with a rich cultural life, an impressive array of facilities and an active athletics community. For quick facts about the University, go to <http://www.wfu.edu/visitors/quickfacts.html>. For quick facts on Winston-Salem, go to <http://www.cityofws.org/Home/DiscoverWinston-Salem/Articles/CityInformation>. AA/EOE. Send letter and vita only to Claudia Kairoff, Chair, Department of English, P.O. Box 7387, Winston-Salem, NC 27109, postmarked no later than October 31.