

American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Wake Forest University invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor beginning in the academic year 2010-2011. Duties will include teaching introductory American politics, research methods, and upper level courses in race/ethnic politics and political participation. Candidates might also have an ability to teach courses in social movements, religion and politics, or the environment. Ph.D by time of employment is expected. Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Teaching experience is desirable. Minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

Applicants should submit a placement file including curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, course outlines, teaching evaluation summaries, samples of published research or dissertation chapter(s), and three letters of reference by October 1, 2009 to Dr. Katy Harriger, Chair, Department of Political Science, Box 7568, Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, NC 27109
