

Wake Forest University
Department of Philosophy

welcomes

Jesse Prinz

University of North Carolina

who will speak on

“Are Morals Just Socially Constructed Feelings?”

Recent evidence from psychology and neuroscience suggests that moral values have an emotional basis, and evidence from anthropology and cultural history suggests that moral values vary from culture to culture as a result of emotional conditioning. Could it be that our deepest moral convictions are just culturally inculcated gut reactions?

Friday, January 25, 2008 4:30 p.m.

Tribble Hall B316

For special assistance, please call 336-758-5359 so reasonable accommodations can be made.

Supported by the Thomas Jack Lynch Philosophy Funds